DELEGATES

By GEORGE FITCH

This is the closed season for delegates, but we should nevertheless study them with care, for like the seventeen-year locusts they are bound to come again.

A delegate is a man elected by a primary, or by a large man in a speckled vest, to do the thinking for his community. Delegates are chosen because they are supposed to develop more intelligence per minute under a load than the common pluck of the average man in a convention is capable of.

Sometimes there is a dispute and rival delegates are appointed by rival conventions. In such cases the credentials committee settles the dispute by paying for guidance to select the crowd who will vote for the right man.

Delegates are not paid for their services, but are glad to do the people's thinking for them because of the honor. It is a great honor to be a delegate, but after the average specimen has paid $10 a day for board and room for 10 days, he begins to murmur and repine and curse the candidates, and telegraphs home for money and a clean collar. About five days of honor at 100 in the shade is as much as the ordinary delegate can stand.

A delegate goes to a national convention a free man, full of patriotism and sagacity. But when he gets there he becomes afflicted with cheers, stampedes, riots, perspiration, pugacity, profanity, allegations and recriminations, and has to do his thinking after he gets home, with the assistance of those who were once his friends. There is no more impressive sight than that of 1000 sterling and able delegates in a crowded convention hall, standing on their hind legs and using their heaven-sent wisdom in throwing their hats into the rafters because a brass band has exploded at a critical moment. A delegate may be a cool, calm man at home, but in convention he is generally so nervous that a blue sash and a pink banner will stampede him on the steath ballot and he will vote wildly for a man whose name he has to ask afterward.

Delegates are supposed to be public property, but often pass into private hands. Mr. Murphy of New York has the finest bunch of trained delegates in the country and takes great pleasure in exhibiting them quadrupally.

PEORIA JOBBERS' KINDLY INTEREST

Fletcher Bros. Dry Goods Company is the name of a large importing and jobbing house in Peoria, Illinois. We had several letters from them asking for literature for their friends. Curiosity prompted us to ask the cause of their particular interest. Their reply is as follows:

"A friend of ours, who was representing one of the leading notion houses of New York, was so sick with Bright's Disease that he was obliged to give up travelling. His weight was reduced from a hundred and eighty-five to a hundred and twenty-five pounds. He was in a critical condition and did not expect to live longer than six months. He accidentally heard of the Renal Compound and commenced to use it. We were surprised to meet him a year later apparently a cured man. At any rate he was his former self, had regained his lost weight and was enjoying the very best of health. As we were personally acquainted with this case we naturally took an interest in your Renal Compound and since then have written at different times for your literature to hand to some of our friends."

Physicians do not have to change their treatment—simply add Fitch's Renal Compound to the heart treatment, etc., they are already giving. There is no conflict. There is then hope.

Honolulu Drug Company is local agent. Ask for pamphlet.

The political candidate who "also ran" is unable to see wherein the world is growing wiser.

Many a man fools himself with the belief that his wisdom is superior to that of the late Mr. Solomon.

The world is full of the sort of friends who take to the woods when trouble shows up.

Only a few absentees and not a great many proxies had to be recorded.

Temporary Organization.

Chairman Cooper having read the convention call, asked what was the further pleasure of the convention.

Mr. Breckons placed in nomination for temporary chairman, Hon. H. L. Holstein, with remarks on his long services to the Republican party.

Mr. Castro seconded the nomination. W. H. Crawford moved that the nominations close, which carried and the chair announced that Mr. Holstein was unanimously elected as temporary chairman.

"It is not carried unanimously," interposed John A. Hughes. "It is carried by a majority but not unanimously."

"I have heard no opposing vote," the chair replied and the incident was closed.

Messrs. Desha and Hughes were in motion of Mr. Breckons appointed a committee to escort the temporary chairman to his seat.

Mr. Holstein said: "Fellow delegates, I shall not make any speeches. Neither shall I make a speech on this occasion, but I want to thank you very sincerely for this honor conferred upon me for the third time—that of being elected to preside over the Territorial convention of the Republican party. I shall do my best to expedite the business of the convention in the best interests of the party, and to that end ask for the cooperation and support of the delegates."

Carl A. Widemann, nominated by Mr. Castro, Mr. Hughes seconded, was unanimously elected as temporary secretary. He was escorted to the desk by Mr. Aylett.

Apaki Manuwal was unanimously elected sergeant-at-arms on nomination by W. H. Crawford, seconded by Mr. Rawlins.

Eli J. Crawford, who had been acting interpreter during the preliminaries, was unanimously confirmed in the office for the temporary organization.

Mr. Castro moved that the chair appoint three committees of seven members, one from each district and one at large in each case—one on credentials, one on rules and permanent organization and one on platform.

Mr. Rawlins moved in amendment that only the committees on credentials and on rules, etc., be appointed, saying that it was contrary to precedent for the platform committee to be appointed in temporary organization. Mr. Castro said his only object was to expedite business, to which Mr. Rawlins replied that it was not a matter of expediency, but of doing the business of the party for the Territory in a regular manner. The right course should be taken if they stayed there for two days.

Mr. Breckons raised the point of order that, according to sound parliamentary practice, the committee on platform should not be appointed by the temporary organization.

The chair ruled the point well taken and the original motion out of order. He then put the motion of Mr. Rawlins and declared it carried.

"D. L. Withington rose for information when the chair said: 'I will read this paper.'"

You tell me you will read a paper," Mr. Withington asked in a tone of surprise.

"The gentleman from the fourth district has the floor," said the chair soothingly.

"I only want to know which motion is declared carried," said Mr. Withington, "as there were two motions made."

He was informed that the original motion had been ruled out of order, so that the only motion that could have carried was that of Mr. Rawlins for two committees.

Committees Appointed.

Temporary Chairman Holstein then appointed the following committees:

- | | |
| Credentials committee— | East Hawaii, James Mattoon; West Hawaii, Robert K. Naipo; Maui, William K. Kaalaki; fourth district, R. W. Aylett; fifth district, E. K. Ali; Kauai, J. H. Kaiwi; at large and chairman, E. F. Deinet. |
| Rules and Permanent Organization committee— | East Hawaii, John Bohnenberg; West Hawaii, James Aho; Maui, Wm. T. Robinson; fourth district, A. N. Campbell; fifth district, W. H. Crawford; Kauai, James K. Lota; at large and chairman, W. H. McInerney. |

A motion for a recess until the call of the chair, to enable the committee to prepare their reports, was amended for a recess until 1:30 p. m. At 10:12 the convention took a recess accordingly.

Convention Work in Afternoon.

Recess has brought forth new developments with regard to the homestead plank of the platform, this being the only plank about which serious concern has been felt by those disposed to harmony.

It is believed now that a homestead plank will be submitted to the convention which will give adequate encouragement to the homesteading cause, prove satisfactory to the sugar-planter interests and provide a comprehensive and satisfactory solution of the question.

Those who have been working on the problem since the adjournment of the morning session are hopeful that when the homestead plank is laid before the convention it will not have to be amended excepting perhaps in some subordinate details.

To bring about the compromise here sketched, the platform committee will consist of two members from each district and one at large, making it a committee of thirteen instead of seven, as originally planned. The committee, before reporting the platform, will consult with leaders of the planter interests and with Delegate Kuhio over the homestead plank.

RIDES ROUGH SHOD OVER TIMID DELEGATES

Called together to get their orders from Lorrie Andrews, Kuhio's man Friday, something like 200 Hawaiians with a sprinkling of a dozen or fifteen haoles assembled in Nottley Hall Saturday night at a meeting remarkable for the meekness with which the dictate of the engineers was received and the practical mechanical way in which the steam roller was operated.

Andrews as chief engineer opened the ball in a speech which was apparently designed to bind the assembled Hawaiian delegates together under the banner of the race issue. With Eli Crawford and the Rev. Stephen L. Desha as interpreters, Andrews' purpose was well served. Desha it was said, while posing as interpreter made a number of interpolations which struck the Hawaiians in the manner desired, and at the same time kept the few haoles present from taking alarm.

It was entirely Andrews' meeting. Charles Chillingworth, another member of the Kuhio committee was on the platform and spoke briefly from time to time. Kuhio himself was present but sat in the audience and permitted Andrews to manipulate things to suit himself.

John C. Lane, another member of the committee was not present prominently if he was there at all. He had received bad news during the day and it is understood does not feel in a particularly pleasant mood toward the other members of the committee. Chillingworth too, preserved a cold and chilling demeanor toward Andrews.

The meeting was originally called to endorse candidates who intend to appear before the county and district convention but changes in plans led to the abandonment of this purpose, and Chief Engineer Andrews and his lieutenants devoted their efforts to forcing through the secret ballot. As a weapon particularly appealing to political strikers, the secret ballot was deemed an entirely necessary requirement and little time was lost in putting it over.

Andrews ordered the delegates to vote in favor of the proposition and the Rev. Stephen Desha with a judicious use of scriptural texts backed him up.

When the vote on the proposition was taken there were only four persons who had the courage to openly oppose it. These were High Sheriff Henry, Oscar Cox, C. W. Ziegler and Jack Lucas. The latter in a thunderous "No," prevented the suggestion from being made unanimous. While the vote on the proposition seemed to suggest that it was almost universally welcomed, there were many members of the delegation from the Hawaiian Islands, before the vote was taken, but they seemed to fear incuring the enmity of the powers that were, by voting their sentiments and so remained silent, voting neither one way or the other. Two delegations, the second of the fourth and the eighth of the fifth, were excused from voting on the ground that they were bound by the results of delegation caucuses.

Following the settlement of the ballot question, Oscar P. Cox of Waialua was chosen unanimously as the Kuhio candidate for the county and district convention, chairmanship, with John Macabino as secretary, and Eli Crawford as interpreter.

HOME RULERS WILL MEET IN NOTLEY HALL

In Nottley Hall tomorrow morning, the Home Rulers will hold their Territorial convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Delegate to Congress, and judging from present indications Charles K. Nottley, who has been the standard-bearer of the oldest political organization in Hawaii, will receive the unanimous support of the convention for that post.

When the Home Rulers met in April, it was decided to postpone the selection of the candidate for Delegate to Congress until after the Republican Territorial convention has finished its work. At that time it was evident that it was the sense of the convention to endorse Prince Kuhio for Delegate to Congress.

Nottley, when asked about the delegation today, declined to discuss the proposition. He added, however, that the Home Rulers will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when the nominations for the delegateship will be in order.

DECLARE FOR SECRET VOTE AND MASS MEETING

After due deliberation, the delegates to the Republican territorial convention, at their general caucuses held yesterday afternoon, decided to hold a mass meeting at Aala park after the completion of their work in the opera house.

H. L. Holstein chairman, Carl Widemann secretary, Eli J. Crawford interpreter and Apaki Manuwal sergeant-at-arms, were decided upon yesterday as the convention officers for the Kuhio forces.

It is expected that Secretary Fisher of the Interior, who is visiting in the territory on official business, will be asked to speak at the mass meeting.

"Vote secretly" was the decision of the delegates to the Republican territorial convention, who met at a general caucuses held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Prince Kuhio at Wai-kihi. Altogether there were about one hundred and fifty people present, and when the roll call was read there was found 92 delegates in attendance. After the general discussion upon the form of balloting was over it was unanimously decided that the delegates to the territorial convention vote secretly.

During the discussion Judge A. S. Mahaulu of Waialua, and one of the most intimate friends of Prince Kuhio, stated that he was in favor of the open ballot. Rev. Stephen L. Desha, another staunch friend of the prince, took the opposite stand and advocated the secret ballot system. The majority of the delegates present were won over by Desha's appeal, and the caucus unanimously decided to go to the convention hall this morning pledged to vote secretly.

Mahaulu, in the course of his discussion, said that the Hawaiians would do well to vote openly, in order that their manhood may be known by others. He said that there was a moral side to the question of voting, and added that the secret ballot will lead the delegates to do things which they would be ashamed of after the convention was over.

Desha roared at the top of his voice and said that the delegates could vote more independently, according to the dictates of conscience, if permitted to vote on any subject secretly. He added that the delegate could not conscientiously vote according to his desire if he found that his employer was present.

Kama, a well-known street-corner politician, kokoned Mahaulu's contention. A. D. Castro thought that an open ballot was the best system of voting. Breckons said that he had his doubts as to the wisdom of voting openly, especially in this country, where coercion may be exercised by those in the higher-up class.

H. L. Holstein, speaker of the House of Representatives, was in the chair, with Wm. H. Crawford as secretary.

Before the caucus adjourned, the chair suggested the following for membership on the convention committees:

Credentials Committee—East Hawaii, James Mattoon, Jr.; West Hawaii, Robert K. Naipo; Maui, Wm. Aylett; fifth district, E. K. Ali; Kauai, J. H. Kaiwi.

Rules and Permanent Organization Committee—East Hawaii, John Bohnenberg; West Hawaii, James Aho; Maui, Manuel Deponte; fourth district, A. N. Campbell; fifth district, W. H. Crawford; Kauai, James K. Lota.

Platform Committee—East Hawaii, S. L. Desha; West Hawaii, John McGurke; Maui, Wm. T. Robinson; fourth district, A. D. Castro; fifth district, A. S. Mahaulu; Kauai, Chas. A. Rice.

The chair will appoint another member at large.

Before the caucus adjourned yesterday, A. D. Castro suggested that a mass meeting be held in Aala park, after the completion of the work of the convention. The chair appointed K. W. Shingie, A. D. Castro and Wm. Ahia special committees to make the necessary arrangements.

The Hawaiian band, it is expected, will lead the parade from the Kuhio headquarters to Aala park, where a mass meeting will be in order.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY

This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not the praise, of those who use it. The quick cures which it effects, even in the most severe cases, makes it a favorite everywhere. It is equally valuable for children, and when reduced with aged water is pleasant to take. For sale by all dealers, Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.
